Here are the rules on seeing friends and family

You must not mix with people from other households indoors.

Households means people that you live with.

When we talk about households we also mean support bubbles.

A support bubble is 1 other household you can mix with by law.

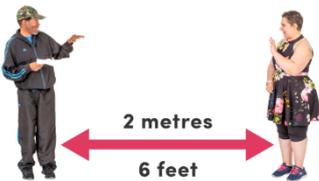

You must not mix with more than 6 people outdoors including yourself. This is called the rule of 6.

These 6 people can be from other households.

You can meet these people in gardens and public spaces like a park or pub garden.

You must keep 2 meters apart from people that you do not live with indoors and outdoors. This is called social distancing.

It is okay to meet people that support you indoors and outdoors like carers, support workers, social workers or doctors.

These people do not count in the rule of 6.

If you see someone you know when you are indoors you can wave to that person but you should not go over to them.

Here are the rules on eating out

Places that sell proper meals can open, for example a cafe or pub.

These places must stop serving at 10pm and close at 11pm.

The staff must come to your table to take your order.

You can only go inside these places with your household.

You must not mix with people inside these places if you do not live with them.

These places will have rules about what you should do when you are there.

If you do not understand these rules you can ask them to explain.

Here are the rules on other places opening

All shops and personal care services can open for example hairdressers.

Places for entertainment can open, for example cinemas, museums, bowling alleys, and bingo halls.

You can go to the gym and swimming pool.

Organised means that a business runs it, like a leisure centre.

You can go to sports events.

There are limits on the number of people that can go.

You can go to religious places for services, for example a church, mosque, synagogue or temple.

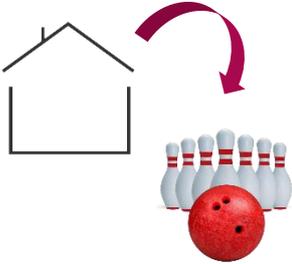

15 people can go to weddings. You must be invited if you want to go to a wedding.

30 guests

30 people can go to funerals. You must be invited if you want to go to a funeral.

You can only go to these places with your household.

You must not mix with people in these places if you do not live with them.

If you see people you know at these places, you can wave to them but you must stay 2 meters apart.

These places will have rules about what you should do when you are there.

If you do not understand these rules you can ask them to explain.

To keep everyone safe these places can only have a few people in at a time.

You may need to check there is space and tell them you want to come before turning up. This is called booking.
